KUALA LUMPUR, 7 Nov 2015 – AirAsia Foundation today celebrated the ASEAN Economic Community with region-wide participation in ‘Destination: GOOD – ASEAN Social Enterprise in Kuala Lumpur’, the Foundation’s first public event. Organised in partnership with Think City and MaGIC Social Entrepreneurship, Destination: GOOD also marks Malaysia’s Chairmanship of ASEAN for the fourth time in the regional association’s history.

On the occasion, AirAsia Foundation announced that it is the first corporate foundation to be accredited as an ASEAN Civil Society Organisation by the body, effective May 2015. The accreditation paves the way for AirAsia Foundation to be part of the association’s efforts in promoting, strengthening and helping realise the aims and objectives of the ASEAN Community.

The day commenced with a Conference that saw two panel discussions on the future of entrepreneurship in ASEAN and how businesses and social enterprises play complementary roles in making ASEAN more equitable, sustainable and inclusive. The opening panel was headlined by ASEAN Change makers including AirAsia Group CEO Tony Fernandes, Eu Yan Sang International Group CEO Richard Eu (SG), Sintesa Group CEO Shinta Kamdani (ID) and Premier Group Chairman and CEO Vichien Phongsathorn (TH).

“This is a special day for AirAsia and we are honoured to be joined by thought leaders who care as much about the future of ASEAN as we do. Social enterprises are part of this future as they offer the possibility of addressing social and environmental challenges sustainably. As business leaders, we play a key role in helping create an enabling environment for them to grow,” said Tony Fernandes.

A second panel of influential social enterprise incubators in ASEAN discussed achievements in the social enterprise scene in respective ASEAN countries and collaborative possibilities that foster the growth of an ASEAN Social Enterprise Ecosystem.

In the second half of the day, a Social Enterprise Marketplace kicked off featuring over 30 ASEAN social enterprises. The businesses address a range of social goals from arts to heritage conservation, from animal welfare to environmental conservation. Participants in the event were invited to interact with the social entrepreneurs and purchase ethical products and services in support of their causes. A Pitch Session by six social enterprises supported by MaGIC Social Entrepreneurship also took place concurrently.
Among the highlights at the Marketplace were award-winning Rags2Riches, Inc. from the Philippines; Jogjakarta traditional silversmiths label group, Selaka Kotagede; Malaysia’s Silent Teddies Bakery and Cambodia’s A.N.D. with their unique pastel ikat created in collaboration between designers and disabled artisans.

“Today brings together our efforts to meet our objective of nurturing growth of social enterprises in ASEAN. Our support for the sector lies not only in the Foundation’s grant award work but in connecting social entrepreneurs so that they are able to share their knowledge. It is also about exposing many more people unfamiliar with the sector to innovative practitioners. We thank our partners and sponsors for making this possible,” said Yap Mun Ching, Executive Director of AirAsia Foundation.

Yap added that the ASEAN social entrepreneurs hosted by AirAsia Foundation to be in Kuala Lumpur will continue with a closed-door workshop from Nov 8-9, 2015, that is specially designed by AirAsia Foundation to provide them with tools and ideas to grow their businesses. Content for the workshop are provided by subject matter experts and the AirAsia Group’s business partners namely, Badan Warisan Malaysia, Arts-Ed (MY), Creative Move (TH), Nosigner (JP), Liter of Light (PH), Mae Fah Luang Foundation under Royal Patronage, Google, PricewaterhouseCoopers, StartSomeGood.com, National University of Singapore’s Saw Swee Hock School of Public Health, Opendream (Thailand) and Zalora.
